

Water Management Consulting Services

OmniEarth, and our team of water experts and data scientists, is offering a 4-hour paid engagement opportunity. This opportunity is open to any water district or other organization interested in gaining a comprehensive understanding of how the new California mandates and water conservation issues impact day-to-day business.

We will visit your district and review, jointly with you, your water district's current workflow, issues, requirements and desires to better enable you to respond and prepare for ongoing water conservation challenges. Some of the questions we can help you address:

- How do these new mandates and requirements affect my day-to-day operations?
- Am I doing everything I can to address the conservation mandates put forth by the State?
- Am I currently in compliance?
- Is what I am doing today the most cost-effective and efficient way to address compliance and conservation?
- Am I maintaining my revenue while aiding conservation?
- Will budget-based rates work for my District?
- If so, how do I model them?
- Do I understand the demographic impact of budget based rates and conservation efforts?
- Do my constituents and stakeholders find what we're doing agreeable?
- Are there other tools and methodologies I can employ to address these complex challenges I am facing?
- How can I tap into the resources I have today?

These are a few of the questions we can help you answer and work towards building a comprehensive plan to meet the tough challenges in front of you ... saving you time, money and water, and preparing you to meet future challenges.

Features:

- 4 hours of dedicated time from OmniEarth's team of data scientists and water consultants
- A written plan or report of findings
- A suggested approach to address the challenges identified in the engagement
- A discount on the first year's subscription of OmniEarth's Water Management cloud service
- Follow-up conversation/meeting to review success of implementation of suggested plan

Cost: $800 for the first 4-hour engagement. Subsequent follow up engagements $650 for 4 hours. To request information and to schedule your consultation, please contact us at 888-838-6318 or water@omniearth.net.
